A FILM BY KEN BURNS
THE NATIONAL PARKS
America's Best Idea

The next best thing to being there.
Wednesdays at 6 p.m. starting August 19. See page 3.
Dear Friends,

As I write, it’s a cool July day but it’s sunny and the mountain is out. Its shining presence reminds me of many family hikes and day trips to Mt. Rainier National Park and how lucky we are in Western Washington to have such a beautiful site where we can escape, retreat, and reconnect with natural beauty.

The National Parks: America’s Best Idea, produced by Ken Burns and written by Dayton Duncan, is filmed in some of America’s most spectacular locales. The series tells stories of people from every conceivable background who were willing to devote themselves to saving some precious portions of the land they loved from being invaded and destroyed.

The first episode highlights President Theodore Roosevelt’s 1903 three-day excursion into Yosemite with naturalist John Muir—arguably the most important camping trip in American history. The president was so moved by what Muir showed him that over the course of his term, Roosevelt created five new national parks and numerous bird sanctuaries, game refuges, national monuments, and more than 100 million acres of national forests. As a result, we all have access to these wonders in 29 states.

As a result of so much hard work a century ago, we inherit a legacy. Our national parks grant all Americans access to our majestic landscapes, and this documentary is the next best thing to being there.

The National Parks: America’s Best Idea airs in six parts on KBTC this month and next, beginning August 19 at 6pm.

DeAnne Hamilton
Walk through the history of the national parks featuring characters—some famous, most not—from every walk of life who dedicated their lives to ensuring all could enjoy these treasured places.

Second Wind: Tale of a Sailor | Tuesday, August 18, 9 p.m.

A chronicle of award-winning nautical photographer Onne van der Wal's career and his solo, hands-on restoration of a 1972 Pearson 36 sailboat.

Sea of Light: A Blind Yachtman's Voyage Across the Pacific | Tuesday, August 25, 9 p.m.

Sailor Mitsuhiro Iwamoto achieves the spectacular as the first blind person to make the brutal journey across the Pacific Ocean.
