Prairie Public Broadcasting provides quality radio, television, and public media services that educate, involve, and inspire the people of the prairie region.

We’re a trusted public media service dedicated to building an exciting and productive future for our region and its people by offering a window on the world and creating a forum for discussion of important issues.

Individual and community support is a crucial part of Prairie Public’s success, and this Community Impact Report celebrates our dedicated partners and contributors.
Public media can help us to be educated, involved, and inspired. And it can keep us young.

How? With lifelong learning that exercises our minds and challenges our assumptions. With front-row seats to the best of drama and comedy that enlivens our spirits. With news programming that keeps us informed—and our minds sharp and engaged.

I think we can all agree that public media is healthy for individuals and for our society. It offers extraordinary opportunities for connecting our communities with each other and the wider world. We’re creating a sense of belonging that can keep us feeling energized. And we’re always looking forward to ways that public media can be a source of inspiration and creativity in new and exciting ways.

As we continue to navigate the challenges of an ever-changing world, I invite you to tap into your sense of wonder—the curiosity that can keep us feeling young at heart.

Thank you for your ongoing support, and here’s to many more years of lifelong learning, connection, and creativity!

Prairie Public is known for its diverse collection of documentaries and ongoing series

Prairie Pulse, Prairie Mosaic, Prairie Musicians, and Main Street feature community affairs issues, history and culture, and the artists who make our region interesting.

Dakota Datebook: Teachings of Our Elders radio shorts and podcast is a partnership of Prairie Public and the North Dakota Department of Public Instruction.

Prairie Public hosted a Listening Tour—eleven Zoom events—to hear from people in rural North Dakota about their communities’ challenges and accomplishments.

Prairie Public’s 2022 television documentary The Women of Alba Bales House reminisces with former NDSU home economics majors.

Prairie Public’s radio news team provides our region with daily local and regional news and is a stable and trustworthy presence in the offices of newsmakers.

2022 election coverage on television and radio—and online—included live debates for North Dakota U.S. Senate, Minnesota’s 7th District Congressional seat, North Dakota’s Congressional seat, and Attorney General.

Radio listeners hear roots, rock, and jazz music on Into the Music with Mike Olson, classical music on Prebys on Classics, community conversations on Main Street, regional talent on The Great American Folk Show, and a variety of music entertainment and cultural programming throughout the schedule and online.
We’re engaging families and teachers with innovative educational experiences

Partnering with communities and their schools, Prairie Public reinforces the love of learning. Professional development opportunities and thousands of standards-based online resources serve and support our region’s educators.

Every child who writes and illustrates a story for Prairie Public’s PBS Kids Writers Contest is acknowledged for their achievement, and a talented few will read their stories on the radio for everyone to hear!

The PBS Digital Innovator All-Star program brings together community thought leaders who are doing extraordinary work in their teaching environments. Twenty educators were chosen from across the country to be All-Stars and share their ideas on national platforms. Prairie Public’s All Stars are J’Neil Gibson, who coordinates programs at Youthworks North Dakota, and Frederick Edwards, who graduated from NDSU and is an educator, motivational speaker, and spoken word artist.

Regional educators attended a media-in-the-classroom course by Prairie Public called “Growing Together” developed in partnership with the North Dakota Council for Teachers of English.

With resources from partners like the PBS NewsHour Reporting Labs, NPR, and PBS LearningMedia, area youth learn about media creation and responsible use of media.

Prairie Public’s original productions are consistently award-winning

The Telly Awards annually showcases the best work created in television and video, for all screens. Receiving over 12,000 entries from all 50 states and five continents, Telly Award winners represent work from some of the most respected advertising agencies, television stations, production companies and publishers from around the world.
