Some people talk about the environment. Others actually do something proactive about it. Like the group of 26 Santa Barbara artists who founded the Outdoor Airing Club more than 20 years ago. The O.A.K. Group, as it is known, is made up of artists who paint magnificent, unspoiled open spaces threatened by development. They then sell these art pieces at a special auction with 50 percent of the profits going to organizations in Santa Barbara County working to preserve our precious and unfortunately disappearing open, natural, landscape. Huell spends a day with some O.A.K. Group members as they painted in three different spectacular locales, and then attends the auction several months later. The resulting episode of California's Green is not only beautiful, bit inspirational as it shows how important a small but dedicated group of

7:30PM Symphony for Nature: The Britt Orchestra at Crater Lake

This program documents an extraordinary musical experience at the edge of Oregon's Crater Lake, known as giiwas to the Klamath Tribes. More than 130 musicians - including classical musicians and Klamath drummers - gathered at Crater Lake National Park in July 2016 to perform the world premiere of a powerful new score inspired by the legendary lake. "Natural History," composed over the course of a year by Michael Gordon, was performed by members of the Britt Orchestra, the Klamath drum group Steiger Butte Singers, a choir, and community brass and percussion groups. With just a few days to rehearse together, the diverse ensemble converged under the direction of conductor, Teddy Abrams. The program is both a story about the creative process culminating in the performances and a window into a place rich with spiritual and historical significance.
