7:30PM Growing Bolder - Curiosity & Creativity

Life is full of unseen challenges. It's how we respond that makes all the difference. George Kamper is a Miami-based lifestyle photographer who worked all over the world. When the pandemic hit, his curiosity and creativity helped his brand become even more well-known. Plus, volunteer Diana DeLano created a way to help neglected and abused horses, and it's not just the horses who are benefitting. A big part of Martha's life is traveling which, of course, went away during the pandemic. And, for more than 40 years, Rick Steves has helped millions explore Europe. He's also a bit of a philosopher. Unable to travel, he's hunkered down at his home in Seattle where we caught up with him and asked him to share some thoughts about life in general. This Peanut Headz episode of Black History Toonz features, "How George Washington Carver Saved the South." "Superficie" A response to our connections between the natural and man-made world. How do our haptic senses respond to environmental impulses? How does the environment react to our actions? Superficie plays with surfaces, touch, textures, movement, and sounds that are both internalized and externalized. "On the Note of Humanity & Unity" A tender ode to the inner world that fuels our strength and the caring hand we all need during turbulent times. "Mooring" For more than 30 years, people have been living on their boats in the mooring field off Dinner Key Marina. Some choose a life on the water. For others, it's a calling. In Mooring, Mike reflects on life on his boat and the winding channels that brought him to the water. "Offline" When your relationship to the internet changes, from a place of exploration and opportunity to a place of collective action and reaction, it can become challenging to locate the Self. I sit with plants and allow them to show me who they are and how I should engage with them without a single word. It is within them that I find the blueprint of life on this confusing planet, it is within them that I feel most my Self. "Mommy, will you play with me?" An uncanny child wrests mother's attention from a Zoom meeting.

11:00PM Woodsongs - Baby Gramps and Lula Wiles

BABY GRAMPS is an energetic humorously entertaining performer with an endless repertoire. He plays a National Steel guitar, and sings his own unique arrangements of rags, jazz, & blues from the 20's & 30's, and many originals with wordplay, humor, and throat singing. According to an article in Seattle Metropolitan Magazine, Baby Gramps is acknowledged as one of the top 50 most influential musicians in the last 100 years. LULA WILES is the trio made up of Isa Burke, Eleanor Buckland, and Mali Obomsawin and came of age in Boston, in the practice rooms of Berklee College of Music and the city's lively roots scene. Anchoring the band's sharp, provocative songcraft is a mastery of folk music, and a willingness to subvert its hallowed conventions. They infuse their songs with distinctly modern sounds: pop hooks, distorted electric guitars, and dissonant multi-layered vocals, all employed in the service of songs that reclaim folk music in their own voice.
