One day Leah was getting the mail and she saw an invitation. It said, "Sky Party at 3192 Elf Street. When the sun goes down.

Leah loves parties. They were her favorite.

“A sky party must be like a normal party, but in the sky,” Leah thinks to herself.

I know fairies can fly, but how do you have a party in the sky?

Leah put on a glow in the dark dress and used her magic to put some glitter on her wings. Then she headed to the party. When she got there, she looked up and everyone looked upset.

“Why are you all sad?” Leah asks.

“We are all tangled up in the decorations. Can you help us please!” Emma yells.

“Sure!” Leah replied.

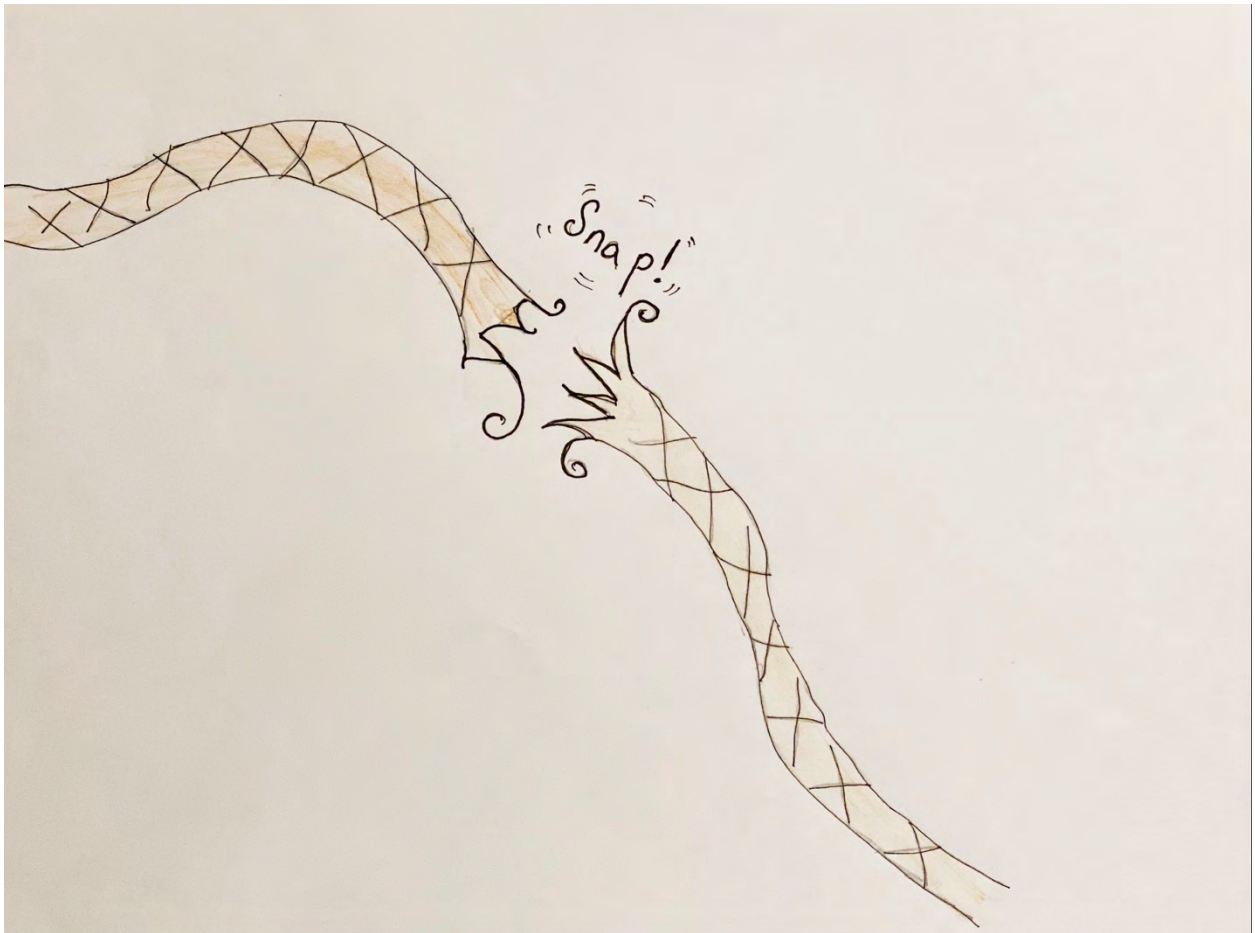

“And, we can’t get the table and chairs in the sky!” Emma added.

“Well, what have you all tried?” Leah asked.

First, Zoey decided to get a big fan to put under the table and chairs. That was a windy mess.

Next, Mia tied them to the trees, but the string was too thin and it snapped.

Then, Brooke got balloons with helium inside and tied them to the table and chairs, but they flew away!

I know fairies can fly, but how do you have a party in the sky?

Then, Leah had a thought, “With all of our magic combined, it might just be enough!”

So that is what they did, and it worked!

“Yay problem solved!!” Leah screamed.

“We did it!” they all cheered. And that is how they had a party in the sky.
