Resilient Iconography

I love fall! After the thrill of summer adventures, autumn is the time I like to settle into the rhythms of family and home, and it can also serve as a time for reflection. One of the things I enjoy most about our content is how it seeks to thoughtfully capture and carry on the hallmarks of our culture. This season, we immerse ourselves in these journeys and narratives, celebrating the power of storytelling and the enriching experiences that define who we are.

“This season, we immerse ourselves in these journeys and narratives, celebrating the power of storytelling and the enriching experiences that define who we are.”

In the 1970s, disco dominated American pop music. Originating in nightclubs that featured record players instead of live bands, it was a major stylistic departure from rock, and its rise to the top of the music charts signaled a cultural shift that some found threatening. The War on Disco: American Experience explores the cultural movement that gave rise to disco music, and the backlash that tried to destroy it. Discover the whole story on Monday, October 30 at 9 p.m.

Flourishing in the Desert
October 16
The Southwest is hot and dry, but for millions of people, it’s a place to thrive. After her divorce, writer and adventurer Lisa Abelar redefines herself in the great outdoors; Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Daniel Gonzalez struggles with linguistic dualities; and after leaving California, Sharee Hurts wonders if she can find home in Phoenix.

On Sacred Ground
October 23
For Indigenous Americans, the idea of the sacred is connected to the land and traditional ways of seeing. Kevin Abourezk rallies his Native community to oppose a massive housing development on tribal land; Colleen New Holy’s close relationship with her mother provides a front-row view of the judgment heaped on traditional healing; and Valery Killscrow-Copeland takes us on a hike... that’s interrupted by Bigfoot!

The Good Road
Tuesday, October 17
Mosul, Iraq - Hardwired
at 6 p.m.
We travel to Iraq with non-profit Hardwired Global to discover what it’s like to bring unity to this war-torn country. The children of Kurdish Christians and the children of extremist Islamic groups learn to understand each other by participating in a play about conflict.

Northern Iraq
at 6:30 p.m.
Be prepared to have Iraq open up to you in an amazing way. From a holy Yazidi temple in Kurdistan to the “court of churches” in Mosul’s old city, we get a glimpse of Northern Iraq’s cultural and religiously pluralistic past. Finally, a diverse group of Iraqis comes together to form an eastern orchestra that performs ancient Assyrian songs.

America ReFramed:
No Time to Fail
Thursday, October 26
at 5 p.m.
Rhode Island’s local election administrators and poll workers work around the clock to secure the vote for their community during the 2020 election — amid an onslaught of attacks from a sitting President and the deadly threat of a global pandemic. Once invisible to the general public, No Time to Fail spotlights election administrators as the ground zero of democracy.
