

The Secret in the Jungle

By: Barrett Mough

One day there was a boy that lived in the rainforest; his name was Ryker. All of a sudden, an animal came up to him and began to talk. Ryker was SHOCKED, so he ran and ran to the river. The animal, a bear, followed him. Ryker got the courage to stand up to him. "Hey!" He yelled. But the bear looked nice. "My name is Black," said the bear.

Black and Ryker became best friends. One day while they were playing in the rainforest, they saw what they thought was a ghost. The ghost seemed to chase them through the rainforest. They were terrified! Eventually, the ghost disappeared.

The ghost returned again to the rainforest. Black and Ryker were determined to find out who the ghost was. They ran and ran through the rainforest and caught a glimpse of his tail. They realized that the ghost was actually a black panther. He had been sneaking through the forest to get a better look at Black and Ryker. He wanted to be friends. "Hi!" the black panther said, "My name is Red."

Ryker, Black, and Red became best friends. They explore the jungle; laughing and joking.

The End.