Podcasts

- Code Switch: NPR | It's the fearless conversations about race that you've been waiting for! Hosted by journalists of color, our podcast tackles the subject of race head-on. (For all)
- 1619 | The New York Times' Nikole Hannah-Jones won a Pulitzer Prize for her 1619 Project, a series that reframes our understanding of American history through the lens of the first slave ship arriving to Jamestown in August 1619. The podcast is equally compelling, and short, with just six episodes that pack in a lot of historical information mixed with incredible sound design. (Students, teachers)
- Race, Police & The Pandemic | On this episode of The FRONTLINE Dispatch, Jelani Cobb of The New Yorker examines a connection between George Floyd's death and the disproportionate impact of COVID-19 deaths among African Americans. (For all)
- Playlist: America's Reckoning with Racial Injustice | NPR curated a podcast playlist to amplify conversations from NPR about law enforcement, racial injustice, and the black American experience. (For all)
- Nice White Parents | This 5 part series looks at the 60-year relationship between white parents and the public school down the block. (For all)
- Three Miles | There's a program that brings together kids from two schools. One school is public and in the country's poorest congressional district. The other is private and costs $43,000/year. They are three miles apart. The hope is that kids connect, but some of the public school kids just can't get over the divide. (For all)

Collections

- Civil Rights: Then and Now | While students today may think of the Civil Rights Movement as part of the distant past, it's clear that many of the problems that fueled that fight are still with us. (Teachers, students)
- The 1619 Project | An ongoing initiative from The New York Times Magazine that began in August 2019, the 400th anniversary of the beginning of American slavery. It aims to reframe the country's history by placing the consequences of slavery and the contributions of black Americans at the very center of our national narrative. (Teachers, students)
- Confronting Bias: Ethics in the Classroom | The resources in this collection provide teachers with tools to incorporate ethics education in the classroom, promote understanding of differing viewpoints, and foster civil dialogue about bias. (Teachers)
- Black Culture Connection | A curated list of shows and films from PBS that are centered on Black history and culture. (For all)
- Say it Loud | A PBS Digital Studios series that celebrates Black culture, context, and history. The show explores the complexity of Black experience and finds joy in the many ways black folks have influence American life. (Students)
