Power Brokers It's arguably one of Montana's most tragic stories. It led to the demise of Montana Power, the state's only Fortune 500 Company, and it pushed power prices into the stratosphere. While most know how the experiment in electricity deregulation ended, few know how it all began. In this hour-long documentary, Montana PBS investigates the sources of the deregulation movement and the subsequent power crisis. The documentary uncovers surprising relationships and business connections that would eventually cast a shadow over former Governor Marc Racicot and draw Montana Power into a federal investigation. Airs 9/22 1pm; 9/29 3am

The Best Last Place A sequel to the award-winning SAVING THE BURG, which documented the 30-year comeback of Philipsburg, MT. Sometimes things just fall into place, and that was the case for a Helena couple who decided to get married in Virginia City. Marilyn and Jeff Bomar never knew their love for history would turn them into historical homeowners. We'll share the chain of events that gave the Bomars the key to the territorial governor's "mansion" on Wallace Street. Gravity has its role in an art display unlike any other in Montana. In the tiny town of Edgar, Greg Nelson combined his passion for cars and art to create a sculpture garden he calls "Ford Henge." Near Bynum, take a trip to one of the more accessible scenic hikes along the Rocky Mountain Front. It is a fascinating journey back in time to learn about the geology leading to Muddy Creek Falls. And how do objects traveling from deep in the solar system find their way to a garage in Malta? We'll meet a man who turned a long-time fascination with meteorites into a unique business. John Twiggs hosts the program from the Trout Creek Huckleberry Festival.

MT MADE BY MONTANA PBS
A Rare Look Into a Different World
The Amish Dilemma

SUNDAY, 9/3  6PM  Also 9/5 noon; 9/6 4am; 9/9 2am

THE AMISH DILEMMA offers a rare window into a conservative community reputed to be the most closed in the world, where the old remains the absolute reference in the face of modernity. Three generations of Amish make a rare decision to tell their stories after months of reflection and debate with their pastors. How can they live between an ancestral ideology and a civilization of consumption pushed to the extreme? This documentary raises questions about the notion of individual freedom, belonging to a minority, economic and social norms, as well as the place of women.

Fish Decline / Regenerative Ranching
THURSDAY, 9/14 7PM Also 9/15 12:30pm; 9/16 4:30pm; 9/17 10am; 9/18 2am and on Montana PBS - WORLD 9/15 7:30am; 9/17 2pm; 9/20 10pm

In this episode, we explore how trout numbers in three southwest Montana rivers are at or near historic lows and scientists don’t know exactly what’s causing the trend. As Fish Wildlife & Parks ramps up its effort to find the problem, local groups are also stepping in to help. We’ll see what’s being done to find answers. Also, in central Montana learn about efforts to help ranchers improve the health of grassland ecosystems. Programs developed in the last few years are centering the role of privately owned, working lands in conservation. And a group in the Winnett area has found that focusing on the health of the open range has translated to benefits in the health of their community.

Tourist Town Infrastructure/Beef Processing Lack
THURSDAY, 9/28 7PM Also 9/29 12:30pm; 9/30 4:30pm; 10/1 10am; 10/2 2am and on Montana PBS - WORLD 9/29 9am; 9/30 4pm

In this episode, a deeper look at the cascading economic effects of overwhelmed wastewater systems. Montana’s tourism sector, mainly fueled by Yellowstone’s gateway towns, has become a key economic driver in recent years. But, the millions of Yellowstone visitors pass through towns sometimes as small as 77, creating a tough paradox for the communities. While the economic survival of the towns is contingent on the influx of tourists, it’s precisely those tourists that strain the small-town wastewater infrastructure to the edge of disaster. Also, Montana is famous for its beef, yet only one fifth of the meat that’s locally-raised is processed in-state. Montana PBS talks with ranchers, processors, and buyers to learn more about supply chain issues and tough economics that are feeding home-grown solutions.

They are Jackie, Matt, and Inez who, along with the wise-cracking cyber-bird Digit (Gilbert Gottfried), travel from their real-world realm to the colorful virtual vistas of cyberspace. Each episode takes the kids on a thrilling adventure driven by a different math concept - from tackling time in ancient Egyptian tombs to making sense of numbers in a fractured fairytale world – as they vanquish the bad guys.
