

A Resource for Distance Learning

PBS LearningMedia is a free service that offers thousands of contextualized learning materials aligned to state and national standards. The site allows educators to curate and share educational media that supplements the units they're teaching:

Inspire learners with content from PBS stations and award winning series such as Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood, Crash Course, Ken Burns Films, and more.

Search and browse content by subject area, state and national curriculum standards, and grade level.

Create an account and access lesson plans and assignment tools: favorite, save and organize content into folders or playlists.

Full Google Classroom Integration – giving teachers the ability to sync class rosters, assignments, and assignment results between PBS LearningMedia and Google Classroom.

Remind Integration – allowing educators to simply and easily share content to an entire class, or their families.