

“Sad”

My husband was an officer in the Marine Corps. He served one year in Vietnam & left on his birthday. He has suffered from PTSD. He is 100% service connected disabled and resides in the nursing home unit at the VA Hospital in Albany. I am happy with the care he receives and the recreation provided. During the "war", I worked evenings so was out of the loop. It was not until John was there that it became real. So unlike World War II when every aspect of life was affected.
