The Skeleton That Would Not Go Away

Margaret McEwuen
A long time ago there lived a little girl named Margaret who lived with her mother and her father in a hut in the woods.
One night Margaret was walking in the cemetery when she stopped in front of a very weird coffin and a skeleton popped out.
Margaret ran home screaming but the skeleton followed her. When Margaret went outside the next morning, the skeleton was there and would not leave her alone. So Margaret had no choice but to get fire and tried to scare him away. But it did not work. The skeleton was not frightened at all.
The next day the skeleton was still there. Then

Margaret got a dog since dogs love bones. Finally, the skeleton, afraid of being eaten, ran away.
