BRAINSTORMING – Get Ready to Write!

Brainstorming is a way to come up with new and different ideas.

- If you could write a story about anything what would it be?
- Who are the characters, places or events that will be in the story?
- List or draw your story ideas in the box below.
- Circle the idea you want to use in your story!
All stories have a beginning, middle and an end.

Write down or draw how you want the story to start, what happens during the story, and how it will end.

Illustrations

Pictures are important in a story, they show things that aren’t in the words of the story and can add funny, happy, sad or scary feelings to the story. Pictures can have captions. Captions are words under the picture to connect the picture to the story. Practice drawing pictures and writing captions.

Once you have answered “yes” to all the questions you are ready to enter your story in the West Virginia Public Broadcasting PBS Writers Contest!
Prior to beginning the writing process carefully review the Contest Rules. Pay particular attention to the guidelines for word count, page numbering, and illustration expectations.

Brainstorming is intended to help students start to form ideas for potential stories. It provides a blank page to freely develop ideas through word and illustration. Encourage students to suggest ideas for characters, places, or events that will be in the story.

Beginning – Middle – End is intended to help students develop their story ideas and work on characters, plot/story structure, climax/resolution, and setting.

Let the Story Writing Begin is intended to help students write a first draft of their story. Students may want to use the Revising rubric at this point as a formative assessment.

Illustrations provides an opportunity for students to make thoughtful, engaging illustrations they want to use with their story and give practice in writing captions. Encourage students to pick words and phrases from their stories they want to illustrate. You may want to show students picture books and ask them to explain how the illustrations enhance the understanding of the story.

Time to Write – Students actually write and illustrate their story now. Review the Contest Rules with students periodically to make sure they are following guidelines.

Revising provides the students with an opportunity to review and revise their work prior to submitting the final product. Once a student has checked yes as their answer to each question they should be able to submit their contest entry.
